

FROM THE WORLD OF LABOR.

Machinists' Progressive Union No. 1 has joined the International Machinists' Union of America.

The striking shoemakers of Louisville, Ky., report that an attempt is about to be made to replace them by importations from Eastern States.

Under the auspices of the National Union Waiters and Bartenders, a mass-meeting will be held to-morrow at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum to organize a local union of bartenders.

Wage-workers never have been, and never will be, satisfied with their lot, unless they control the powers of State and compel an equitable distribution of the products of labor.

The new delegates of the Progress Association Kismet-Pitts' Helpers to the Central Labor Union are: J. J. Backus, J. J. Henry, Henry Culling, Alexander Martin and Edward Kelso.

Starck & Co., Seventy-second street, have increased the wages of their cigar-makers, and their men are now on strike.

The annual picnic and Summer-night's festival of the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum will take place next Saturday in the garden of the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum.

The building trades unions connected with the Central Labor Union will make a special effort to hold a large number of members.

The employees of the Kings County Elevated Road are dissatisfied because their wages are too low and their hours are fifteen and sixteen per day.

In place of M. Harnisch, who resigned, H. M. Goldfarb has been elected Treasurer of the Workers' Union of Building Trades, Labor Day.

Vogel was elected Auditor. The Association has 616 members at present.

Charles Buchner has been elected Delegate to the International Glass-Makers' Convention by the Metropolitan Union.

John J. McLaughlin has been elected Secretary and Alternate. The Union gained eleven new members this week.

The Bricklayers' Union will have its annual picnic at Reservoir Park. An invitation to attend will be sent to the members of the Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union.

As John Brady, Delegate of the Cement and Bricklayers to the Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union, has become an employer, the organization has been notified to elect another delegate.

Bakers' Union No. 98 has elected the following officers: John Horan, President; Charles Schumacher, Vice-President; Charles Fries, Recording Secretary; and John Schumacher, Treasurer.

A mass meeting of the unemployed is to take place to-morrow evening at Washington square, New York City. The speakers will be William Henriot Koch and Miss Elizabeth Boyce are to be announced as the speakers.

The Pen and Pocket Blade Grinders and Finisners' Union, of Meriden, Conn., asks the men to come to stay away from Miller Bros' cutlery shop in that city, where a strike has been ordered.

The Executive Board of the Piano-Makers' Union was requested yesterday by the Machineists' Union to grant a group of members of the members who disapproved by Wesel, Nickel & Gross and other firms join the unions of their trade.

The Socialist section of Sandusky, O., has withdrawn from the party to join the Farmers' Union. The action will be approved of the members who disapproved of the action will reorganize the section.

The receipts of the central body of the United Helms Trades Unions during the last six months were $107.35, and $703.35 were expended. The amount of the balance of the action represents fourteen of whom joined since February last.

The strike-carmen of Toledo have made a compromise with the concentrations of that city. They demand that the city hire 300 carmen and they will accept that if the city hires 300 more.

The strike of the carmen's jacket-makers at B. Schwartz's shop, in Brooklyn, has been cleared off. The strikers say that the United Labor Club filled the shop with its own machine men.

The waiter girls of Berlin have won their indignations in the deal with many of the waiters who they are complaining. The Union has already got one thousand members.

President Joseph Gottfried, of the Journeymen Bakers' Union, complains that many union men are patronizing non-union grocery shops and has issued an appeal to organized labor to assist the Union by patronizing non-but union shops.

Machine Wreckers' Union No. 26 has lost its last case. The court has ruled against the employers, who neglect to provide the necessary

Under the newly adopted municipal system, wages of the street-carp mechanics in Toronto Ont., have been increased to 15 cents per hour and the hours of labor were reduced to a minimum of 40.

About twenty thousand organized workmen in Cincinnati have adopted resolutions protested against giving the city's subsidies to private individuals or corporations, and preparations are being made to present a petition to the city council.

Secretary Joseph Cassidy, of Economic Association of Engineers New J., stated at yesterday's meeting of the Building Trades Section of the Great Labor Union, that non-union engineers have lowered their rates of remuneration about 25% since the Miner's Theatre. The Arbitration Committee has the matter in hand.

The co-operative shop of the plash-makers has been a failure, and the men who worked there have again tried to start an employers' union. The plash-makers of the Hadden brothers had established a co-operative store at 30 Leeson street, 28 Hunter street and 29 and 37 Ludlow street.

day event as follows: Frank McHugh and Al Dismore, of the Cement and Asphalt Lays Union; Pompey Spangnour, George Gervagny, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; William H. Hall, of the Bricklayers Union; and Helphers Union, B. Thomas, of the Myrtle Association.

The advisability of electing a statistician for the Building Trades Section, of the Central Labor Union, was discussed at the meeting. The Building Trades Section at yesterday's meeting of that body. It was resolved to leave the matter to a special committee with instructions to prepare a plan of organization. Delegated Joseph H. Hall and Work were the principal advocates in the proposition.

President Berkmyer has called a meeting of the Northern Section of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America for Sunday afternoon, Aug. 2, at the public hall, corner of Third and Third streets, near Munmouth streets, Jersey City. The People's park movement will come up for consideration.

The National Executive Committee of the Socialist Labor party is holding the delegates to the territorial convention in the Roosevelt Hotel, New York, this evening, to prevail upon the Congress to select Chicago as the place where to meet in 1914, and invite all socialist workers of Europe to send their delegates to this country as the guests of organization of America.

J. Ohm and W. Bleesing have been elected by the Brooklyn Branch of the Architectural Union Workers' Association to the National Executive Committee of the Brooklyn Central Labor Federation. They will also elect a Working Delegate in conjunction with the New York Branch. The election will take place at the Brooklyn Branch. The New York Branch reports that all of the shops in this city are under their jurisdiction.

J. T. Altman, one of the best known Knights of Labor in New Jersey is writing a novel of great interest to the workers of this country. The title of the work is "Into Light." As Mr. Altman is a Irishman, the novel is a story of the Irish people.

she caught up the child and was about to leave the room with it, when its death was induced her to lay it down again for the last time and to go with it, her father's room, where she soon learned what had occurred.

The confusion in the house was very great and the rushing hither and thither of servants and the arrival of medical men made up such a scene as may be imagined.

It was a full hour before Dordina went back to her office, ready to begin her work.

The child was gone!

With the child, too, was gone a folded paper in an envelope, which the merchant had pressed into his daughter's hands the night before, saying, as he did so, "Next part with this, my child, for it is your inheritance, and it will be your child's fortune when given to her, to be merciful."

It was the new will.

Dordina had guessed it to be some such document, although she had not read it; but when a clerk in the office deposed that he had accepted a will for the merchant on that day and there could be no doubt that it was in that envelope, as two of the clerks in

But the child was gone—and the new wife was gone!

Wringing her hands and screaming aloud, poor Bortuda ran through the rooms of the house, but no child was to be found; and then she fell into a swoon which lasted long enough to endanger her life.

I was at that period seeking for business in the bar; and it was the elder brother of the young clerk who had made the copy of the will for Mr. Paine on the eventful day of the recovery of his long-lost daughter, who came to my chambers in Lincoln's Inn on the matter. He was quite a young man, but he junior clerk of Mr. Fallin's, had gone to the

"Then it is Maria Pailo who is interested in the disappearance of the second will?"

"Just so."

"And the child, who could not go without some agency out of the house, is not?"

"Found you say?"

"There is no trace of it."

"The matter seems to me," I said, "to be one for the police; but if you, as Mrs. Dordene Le Jeune's attorney, choose to instruct me to go and see her—that is, certainly to see her while there, I shall be most happy to make such search and such inquiries as I can."

"The poor lady, sir, has not instructed me, but she will, no doubt."

"And if that! I will go with you once to Mr. Pailin's."

(Concluded Tomorrow.)

she caught up the child and was about to leave the room with it, when its deep sleep induced her to lay it down again in the bed and to go without her to her father's room, with a rough draft of the merchant's will which had been left in his desk, and from which he had made the fair copy that, doubt, had been duly executed and handed pressed into his daughter's hands the last thing over-night, saying, as he did so, "Never part with this, my child, for it is your inheritance, and it will be your child's fortune as well, giving you power to be merciful."

It was a full hour before Dorinda went back to her own room.

"Yes, sir," replied the attorney; "but I know that there is a previous will leaving to Maria, so that Dorianda will be destitute should Maria have such previous will in possession, and produce it."

"But the child was gone—and the new will was gone! Wringing her hands and screaming aloud, poor Portinda ran through the rooms of the

"I was at that period seeking for business at the bar; and it was the elder brother of the young clerk who had made the copy of the will for Mr. Paine on the eventful day of the recovery of his long-lost daughter, who came junior clerk of Mr. Paul's, had gone to him

(Concluded Tomorrow.)